

10 DAY ITINERARY MYKONOS-TURKEY-MYKONOS

Day 1

Mykonos to Paros

Paros is similar to Mykonos island in character and architecture. There are two main ports Parikia and Naousa, both of them offering the choice among traditional Greek Tavernas and Greek Nightlife. Paros is a very popular amongst wind surfers as it has the perfect wind for wind surfing and for organizing championships.

Day 2

Paros to Santorini

Santorini, an active volcanic island, which offers a unique, breathtaking beauty from the villages built practically hanging from the steep cliffs, to the black sandy beaches. A place worth visiting is Oia, a picturesque village located at the top of the island which has one of the most beautiful sunsets.

Day 3

Santorini to Astipalea

The island of Astypalia is situated west of Nisyros and east of Anaphi. The main settlement of Chora is situated on the western coast south of the isthmus which joins the two parts of the island and is built on the very same site as the ancient city. The town has extended down along the coast until it joins with today's harbour. At a small distance from Chora is Livadi, a rich coastal valley. It produces exceptional quality citrus fruits and vegetables and ends upon an idyllic beach. In the northern part of the island there is a large and totally safe harbour with a small settlement called Maltezana.

Day 4

Astipalea to Kos

Kos offers magnificent beauty. Besides its breath taking golden sandy beaches, the island is also steeped in monuments, remnants from its glorious past, making it the ideal holiday destination, not only as a choice between other Greek Islands but on a worldwide scale. The island has much more than just the sea and sun to offer. It is also ideal for educational or school trips, (rich in history and famous since mythological times), scientific, hiking or mountain climbing, rural, curative or therapeutic, religious and athletic tourism and it also boasts some of the most advanced conference centres in the world as well as a modern Marina.

Day 5

Kos to Bodrum

Situated on a beautiful peninsula, Bodrum, home of the famous Greek historian Herodotus, is these days better known as a popular holiday resort. Enchanting villages of houses painted in white and trimmed with purple bougainvillea together with miles of sandy beaches and ideal locations for water sports. Two meters under the narrow streets of Bodrum lies 5000 years of history. A few monuments attest to this history: the castle, the Myndus Gate, the Roman theatre and the Mausoleum.

Day 6

Bodrum to Symi

Symi is located in the Southern Dodecanese, north of Rhodes and close to the coast of south-west Turkey. According to Conde- Nast traveler "Symi has the most beautiful harbour in Greece. On either side of a steep-sided fjord rise tier upon tier of houses, some white, some pastel yellow, but virtually all with Neo-Classical pediments - a reminder that 100 years ago this was one of Greece's most prosperous islands. There has been virtually no modern concrete construction here and now these fine old houses are being resurrected for visitors. The spirit of the island remains intact."

Day 7

Symi to Marmaris

Marmaris, Turkey is a port city and a tourist destination on the Mediterranean coast, located in southwest Turkey. Set against a backdrop of pine clad hills, Marmaris is a resort that combines natural beauty with an astounding zest for life. Famed for its energetic atmosphere as the most extravagant on the entire South coast, this developed resort offers the best of both worlds; the nightlife is unending, and numerous clubs and bars stretch along the coast from the elegant marina to the curve of Icmeler, the smaller resort close by.

Day 8

Marmaris to Gocek

Gocek, is a small seaside farming village in coastal Turkey turned into the top yachting center of Turkey, lies on a valley surrounded by hills on three sides. A prominent characteristic of the town is the fact that it harbors islands and coves located in a large and secluded bay.

Day 9

Gocek to Rhodes

Rhodes is the largest island in the Dodecanese, the island still has unspoiled villages which have kept their authentic colours despite the high level of tourism, nesting in the foothills of the island's mountains. Another quality of Rhodes is its rich and varied landscape which is arid and rocky around the coastlines, creating impressive rocky.

Day 10

Rhodes to Mykonos

The infamous island of Mykonos, is very popular amongst the jet set who visit the island every year for its sandy beaches, picturesque villages, famous clubs, beach parties and for the designer shops. The traditional Cyclades architecture which consists of white houses with blue window shutters, narrow cobble streets and the backdrop of the Aegean is breath which only makes it easy to fall in love with.

The island of Delos, only a short boat trip away, has immense archaeological significance as it was believed to be the birthplace of Apollo the son of Zeus.
